Carver Eliot has settled into his life as a private citizen and investigator, enjoying being his own boss and sharing David Logan's bed. Then the case of one missing girl throws Carver and David's comfortable situation into chaos. David knew that one day one of Carver's cases would fall under the jurisdiction of Pittsburgh's police department. He was hoping it would be later rather than sooner. As Carver's investigation unfolds, however, conflict of interest becomes the least of David's worries. The search for the missing girl leads both men into the shadows of Pittsburgh's sex club scene. As jaded as he thinks he is, Carver's eyes are blown wide open to a culture of pleasure and perversity he had only imagined. David, however, finds himself face to face with a way of life he thought he'd buried along with his lover and mentor three years ago. While Carver struggles to learn a new set of rules, David fights not to lose himself in the role he once knew so well. Finding the girl is easy. Surviving the secrets their investigation reveals about each other and their burgeoning relationship is the true challenge...
